STORM LEAVES HAVOC IN WAKE

Sweeps Over Northern Rush County and Does Great Damage to Farm Buildings.

MANY FENCES ARE DESTROYED

In Numerous Instances Cattle Are Killed When Barns Are Crushed in the Gale.

ROOFS ARE TORN FROM HOUSES

On Peter Nash Farm One Thousand Dollars is Lost as Result of Severe Storm.

Preceding the sudden change in temperature early Sunday morning a windstorm, which has not been surpassed as a wrecker but once in Rush county in recent years, accompanied some electrical disturbances and a heavy downpour of rain, swept over northern Rush county and the gale blew itself into a fury in the north-eastern part of the county.

Thousands of dollars worth of damage was done by the wind. Barns principally, were wrecked, roofs were torn from outbuildings, houses and barns and a great damage was done to telephone lines forests and also fences. It so happened that the windstorm came at a season of the year when there were no crops standing which could be hurt to any great extent. What little corn has not been gathered was laid flat on the ground by the wind.

The storm reached the height of its furor about midnight. It came into Rush county from the southwest after having swept a ten-mile stretch throughout Shelby county about two miles wide. It passed in the vicinity of Homer and Manilla and north of there swung around to the east cutting a slash across the middle part of northern Rush county. It did not reach as far north as Carthage nor as far south as this city, but the country in between was greatly damaged.

There are reports of barns being crushed like an egg shell and much cattle being killed as a result. Corn cribs were swept aside, wind mills were blown over and one report is that a water tank was carried several feet by the wind.

Little or no damage was done in this city, even though the wind was very strong and the electrical display was great. The C. H. & D. west-bound train due in here at 1:43 Sunday morning, was held up for some time west of the city by a fallen tree across the track.

Most of the damage was done in a small strip northeast of the city near Gings and Occident. Probably the greatest damage done on any one farm in the county was that on the Peter Nash place in the storm-swept district. He estimates his loss at one thousand dollars as a result of the storm. A large and modern barn was riddled by the wind and two cattle were killed and others badly hurt. Small outbuildings were blown down and unroofed also.

The roof was torn from the roof of the big barn on Ed Caldwell's farm in the same neighborhood and considerable damage done at other points on the farm.

Near Falmouth on the farm of Charles Woods the roof was wrenched off of a big barn and carried several feet by the wind. His fences were blown down and several trees were uprooted. In the vicinity of Falmouth much trouble was experienced with the telephone as a result of the high wind.

WANT LINE FROM THIS CITY

Brookville People Favor Extension of
I. & C. From Rushville.

The people of Brookville are hoping that the Indianapolis & Cincinnati interurban line will be extended from Rushville through their city, says the Batesville Tribune. We of Batesville are hoping that the road will be extended from Greensburg through Batesville, the road in either case going to Cincinnati via Harrison, and the people of Versailles are hoping that a line will be built from Greensburg to Versailles. Will all these hopes be disappointed or will Batesville get the road?

Shelby Counties to Meet.

The county commissioners will not meet again until Saturday, when they will be in joint session with the commissioners of Hancock and Shelby counties. They will convene here to consider the road on the line of the three counties which has been up before and over which there has been some disagreement. Also Saturday the local commissioners will convene to call an election for the Ed Loudon road in Walker township.

WHITEHEAD CAFE SOLD.

Claude Ricord of Connersville purchased the Whitehead cafe Saturday from Walter Wetters and took possession today. Mr. Ricord is the proprietor of the City Restaurant in Connersville and intends to make the Whitehead cafe as popular as it. He will personally conduct the cafe here and will make several improvements.

IT'S ALL SETTLED.

Indianapolis Star: The New Castle Democrat asserts that Representative Finly Gray will be renominated by the Democrats of the Sixth district. The editor of the Democrat declares that Henry county, Wayne county, Rush and Fayette are sure for Gray, and that reported opposition in the west end of the Sixth district "exists only in the minds of a few space writers on city newspapers." So that's settled!

CITY RESEVOIR IS DRY AT LAST

Water Famine is Now a Reality and May Continue For a Long Time.

SHUT OFF ALL CONSUMERS

Notify Fire Department to Have the Engines in Readiness in Case of Fire.

Rushville faces a water famine and with continued cold weather it may continue to face it for some time to come. The much talked of water supply gave out completely this morning and the city is as dry as a desert as far as the plant is concerned.

The fire of Sunday morning took a large amount of water and the water in the mains was turned off last night at 10 o'clock. After pumping all night there was only three feet of water in the reservoir this morning. When this small amount was turned into the mains the reservoir was completely drained.

With no water in the reservoir Supt. A. T. Mahin thought it best to cut off all patrons and the water is no longer being pumped into the mains. Mr. Mahin says the fire took a large amount of water but thinks it was allowed to run from many hydrants last night. The careless use by consumers who let the water run to prevent freezing, is said to have taken all in the mains and when they were refilled this morning, none was left in the reservoir.

The fire department has been notified to have both engines in readiness in case of fire. The city is fortunate to have the fire engines for without water the city would be in a dangerous condition. Both engines are in working condition and as the cisterns and wells are in good shape little fear is felt from this source.

Mr. Mahin says there is no telling how long the famine may continue and the city water patrons will be turned off as long as there is not a reasonable amount in the reservoir. At this time of the year the shortage of water will cause many hardships, especially among the people who depend entirely on the city for water. Supt. Mahin says if the present cold weather continues it is no telling when the city will have water.

The conditions now are considered worse than in the summer, when the city water came near going out. But that crisis was passed after various methods were used and now—well, the famine is here and may stay a long time.

HIGH GALE BLOWS FIRE FROM SHOP

Had Wind Been in Other Direction
Flames Would Have Destroyed
Weakley's New Building.

BLAZE EARLY SUNDAY MORN

Fire Guttled Bakeshop and Caused
Loss of $5,000—It was Completed Last June.

During the storm early Sunday morning fire originating from an unknown source partially destroyed the new building which was a combination residence and bakery recently built by W. W. Weakley at 318 North Jackson street. That part of the structure which housed the bakeshop was gutted by the flames and all of the equipment of the plant was ruined. Mr. Weakley estimates his loss at five thousand dollars which is partially covered by insurance.

The manner in which the fire got a start is a mystery. It is thought that it originated some place in the stable or shed which was built on to the back end of the building. When Mr. Weakley was first awakened he found the whole back end of the structure in flames and he was unable to determine just where the blaze did start.

The origin of the fire will probably never be known. Mr. Weakley had one ton of loose hay in the mow over his barn, but it is considered improbable that spontaneous combustion would cause a blaze at this season of the year although it is thought that such a thing is possible. The theory has been advanced that tramps may have been sleeping in the barn or that mice or rats may have carried matches and started the blaze.

Had the gale been blowing from the east instead of the west it is highly probable that the loss in that section of the city would have been enormous. Firemen say that it would have been absolutely impossible to save even the Weakley building had the wind been blowing from the east.

As it was the high wind carried the blaze away from the main part of the building since the fire started in the east end. The wind blowing from the east would have enveloped the building in flames at once and would have endangered the Western hotel which is very close to the Weakley building on the north, the C. H. & D. station and the Frazee lumber yards, which is just across the street to the west. The strong wind caused the residences and other frame buildings in that section of the city to be in danger until the flames were extinguished. Sparks were carried for blocks and fell on roofs of houses but fortunately they failed to ignite anything due to the fact that rain had been falling for an hour previous to the fire. The fence on the north side of the Havens school building lot adjoining the bakery was burned and several of the outbuildings nearby were scorched. One room of the Weakley home was damaged by the smoke and water.

The Weakley building was a combination bakery and residence. The Weakley family lives in the front part, upstairs and down, while the back part is used for the bakeshop. Mr. Weakley conducts a retail shop in the front room of the building. He also operates a retail store downtown.

Mrs. Weakley was awakened about one o'clock Sunday morning by the odor of smoke in the back room of the house upstairs which adjoins the bakeshop. She awakened her husband and just as he arose to investigate a gust of wind blew a great volume of smoke into the room. When

The ministers decided to observe the week of prayer, which is the first week in January, with services each night alternating with the different churches. Following the week of prayer it is likely that all of the churches will have meetings each night for at least a week and perhaps longer.

NOTE IMPROVEMENT IN SPICELAND HOME

State Board of Charities Mentions Rush-Henry County Joint Institution in Report.

SANITARY CONDITIONS GOOD

The State Board of Charities recently visited the institutions of Henry county and in its last report mentioned the condition of the Spiceland Orphans' Home, a joint Henry-Rush county institution. The report says:

"Visited June 1, 1911. A great improvement was found since the previous meeting. There are now twenty-one children in the home, eleven from Henry county and ten from Rush county. There are sixteen boys and five girls, nearly all of whom are placeable in private homes. Nineteen of these children attended the Spiceland public school during the past school year. The home is lighted by natural gas, heated by a furnace and ventilated by windows. The sanitary conditions are good. The children are required to bathe once a week, and oftener, if necessary. The health of the inmates is good. They have the Youth's Companion, the Epworth Herald and some other periodicals to read. The boys help with the gardening and in the care of the cows and the chickens; the girls assist in the general housework."

MARRIAGE LICENSE.

A marriage license was issued Saturday afternoon to Frank Farley and Mary Johnson.

RELIEF FROM COLD WAVE DUE

Rise in Temperature Accompanied by Snow Will Follow on Heels of Sudden Change.

COLDEST NOVEMBER SINCE 1898

Drop of Fifty Five Degrees Early Sunday Morning Brings Most Severe Weather Yet.

It is predicted that the cold wave which has held this section of the country in its grip since early yesterday morning, will be broken tonight and will be followed by rain, cloudiness and a great rise in temperature with possibly more snow. The forecast is that snow will most likely fall in this section of the State.

All records for cold weather here at this season were broken early this morning when thermometers registered any place from eight to thirteen above zero. This was a very sudden change coming as it did on the heels of the warmest November day, Saturday, that has been recorded here for many years.

This morning the mercury dropped lower than it has since November 26, 1898. At that time there was a temperature of three degrees above zero registered in Indianapolis. The cold this morning did not seem so severe as that of yesterday, since the wind was somewhat less strong today than yesterday.

The suddenness of the change Saturday night and Sunday morning made the cold all the worse Sunday. The mercury dropped from a temperature here Saturday night of seventy degrees to only fifteen above yesterday morning. The temperature hovered about sixteen and seventeen degrees all day yesterday and began to drop late in the afternoon. At six o'clock it had fallen to twelve and before midnight the mercury stood at ten above. Today the cold was somewhat alleviated by the sun's rays but the temperature did not rise above twenty-two degrees up until this afternoon.

The fall in temperature here yesterday was accompanied by snow flurries at periods during the day. The slick sidewalks and paved streets made it next to impossible for pedestrians to be on the street or for persons to drive.

The coldest place in the United States yesterday morning was Sheridan, Wyo., with a temperature of 14 degrees below zero. Zero weather was general throughout the section and Nebraska. Several cities in South Dakota, Wyoming, Colorado of the country embracing North and Texas and other Southwestern States reported minimum temperatures ranging from 4 to 16 degrees. The highest temperature in the United States was 70 degrees, reported at Macon, Ga.

LOCAL FOLLOWERS PLEASED

Delighted Because Indiana Held Illinois to Scoreless Tie.

Local followers of the Indiana University football team are delighted with the showing made against the University of Illinois eleven Saturday when the Indiana institution held the Suckers to a scoreless tie at Washington Park in Indianapolis. There was a large Rushville and Rush county contingent at the game and most of the local people were loyal supporters of the Crimson. The largest crowd ever attending a football game in Indianapolis was present Saturday.

BATS ARE NOT SO BLIND AS THE OLD PHRASE INDICATES

Indiana University Student Making Special Study of Them, Says Comparison is Very Faulty.
HAVE EXTREMELY GOOD EYES

Who originated the phrase, "Blind as a bat?" C. H. Spurgeon, a teaching fellow in the department of zoology at Indiana university, wishes to know. Mr. Spurgeon is making a special study of bats, doing the work for all advanced degree from the university. He is in a position to know whereof he speaks when he declares the old comparison for defective eyesight faulty. Far from being blind, bats have extremely good eyes. More than this, they have a special sixth sense of direction whereby they are enabled to evade collision with other objects in the dark.
Several interesting things have developed from Mr. Spurgeon's research work. He laid in a new supply of bats, obtaining about a hundred pounds of them, or twenty-five hundred all told, in Wyandotte cave, near Corydon, Arthur Bierhaus, age fourteen, and Arthur Henn, assistant curator of the museum of zoology, went with Mr. Spurgeon to collect the little animal. Besides Wyandotte, Marengo and Little Marengo caves in Crawford county, were visited.
Most of the bats died during the trip to Bloomington. Those that remained alive were placed in cages in the attic of the biological building. A good many escaped and flew around in the building until recaptured or driven outside. Others died in the cages so that out of the hundred pounds taken from the cave only a few pounds remain alive.
According to Mr. Spurgeon the bat is a great sleeper, spending about three-fourths of its time in repose. It goes into winter quarters about the middle of September and hibernates in an inverted position until the last of March. The only time the bat has to fly around is in the nights of spring and summer. When the bat wishes to slumber it hangs itself upside down to the top or walls of the cave by means of hooks on its wings. They are found hanging in this way in inconceivable numbers.

In one of the smaller caves in the southern part of the state, former State Geologist Blatchey counted 401 bats on 1.7 square feet of surface. The walls of Wyandotte cave were black with the little animals, and it was an easy matter for the specimen collectors to scrape a sackful from their nesting places.
Besides the bats the party obtained specimens of cave salamanders, crickets, spiders and crayfish, but unable to find any blind fish. All the bats were found in Wyandotte cave, there being only a few found in the other caves visited by the party. Mr. Henn said that a weird sight was presented as the thousands of bats became aroused by the torches of the party and flew around the cave.
Wyandotte cave is the property of a Mr. Rothrock, a relative of Professor Rothrock, of the department of mathematics. He sends consignments of bats from time to time to Mr. Spurgeon.

SCHOOL HEADS FEEL PUT OUT

They Say State Board Ignored Suggestions.

WILL LOOK INTO THE MATTER

School Superintendents' Association Takes Formal Action in the Matter of a Grievance Voiced Against State Board of Education in the Matter of Making Up the List of Text Books in Use in Indiana.
Indianapolis, Nov. 13.—At the closing session of the Indiana State association of City and Town Superintendents the state board of education was the object of complaints for its alleged failure to give consideration to adoption of certain text books. The organization voted to appoint a committee to investigate the adaptability and suitability of text books now in use and report to the next meeting.
H. G. Brown, superintendent of schools at Lebanon, started the complaint against the state board and explained that one of the instances in which the superintendents' organization opposed the board was a one-book course in geography, which was adopted by the state board of education.
Superintendent J. N. Study of Fort Wayne, who is a member of the state board of education, denied that the board had ignored the recommendations of anyone, and defended its action by stating that hundreds of recommendations and suggestions had been received and that it was physically impossible to adopt all of them. Mr. Study did not oppose the appointment of the committee to investigate the question, he said.
Before adjournment, the association elected the following officers:
President—A. H. Douglass, Logansport.
Vice President—George B. Weldman, North Vernon.
Secretary—A. L. Trester, Alexanria.
Treasurer—W. G. Woody, Greencastle.
Executive Committee—William A. Wirt, Gary; H. L. Smith, Bloomington; J. E. Robinson, Martinsville; O. R. Baker, Winchester; John E. Wood, South Bend; F. L. Axtell, Washington, and P. A. Allen, Bluffton.
The association adopted a resolution favoring a more thorough preparation for teachers before their engagement as high school teachers.

A RECONCILIATION

Is Said to Be in Sight in the Case of the Tarkingtons.

Indianapolis, Nov. 13.—Since the arrival of Booth Tarkington at his home in this city on Thursday there have been rumors of attempts on the part of mutual friends to bring about an adjustment of the trouble between him and Mrs. Tarkington, and negotiations are now in progress to that end. It was expected to set the divorce case for trial on the day following his arrival, but her attorneys say that the day of the trial has not been fixed and they cannot say when it will be tried. This indecision on the part of Mrs. Tarkington's attorneys is believed to be the result of friends trying to bring about a reconciliation. Tarkington has refused to discuss his domestic difficulties with anyone here, and the negotiations that are in progress are through relatives.

TO PUSH IT ALONG

Attorneys Will Seek to Advance New Constitution Case.

Indianapolis, Nov. 13.—The appeal in the Governor Marshall constitution case, in which the state board of election commissioners was enjoined by Judge Remster in the Marion circuit court some weeks ago from certifying the proposed basic law to a vote at the next general election, has reached the Indiana supreme court, and the attorneys in the case will make an effort to have it advanced so as to have a final decision in time to determine whether it may be submitted at the next election.

Fee Held to Be Too Low.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 13.—According to W. A. Dehority, head of the state accounting board, it cost this county $317.60 to discover shortage of $31.71, which Judge Rasch has overruled as being based upon an illegal charge of $1 for granting powers of attorney. The state accountant holds the charge should be $1, and former County Recorder Fred L. Woelker never charged but 50 cents.

Schoolboy Loses Leg.

A $30,000 Car Barn Blaze.

Lagrange, Ind., Nov. 13.—The St. Joe Valley Railway company's car barns and machine shops at this place were destroyed by fire, with a loss estimated at $30,000. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

They Say They Will Recover Everything.

PEKIN'S PANIC QUIETING DOWN

Continued Failure of Threatened Rebel Advance Has Calmed Fears of Royalists and There Is Now Talk of a Compromise Looking to an Early Cessation of Bloody War That Has Sprung Up in Nearly Every Province.

Shanghai, Nov. 13.—Nanking remains in the hands of the imperialists, who have brought in guns that were abandoned by the revolutionists, and are preparing for a strong defense of the city. Many rebels here and at Chinkiang are going to Nanking. Fierce fighting is to be expected. Reports regarding the number of persons who fell in Friday's massacre at Nanking are conflicting, but it is certain the list, if ever made up, will reach above a thousand. It is rumored that the imperialists have begun to bombard Han Yang.

Pekin, Nov. 13.—The recent panic has abated somewhat, following the failure of the threatened rebel advance. The latest seaway reports say that Yuan Shih Kai started for Peking Sunday. The report has further relieved anxiety, as Yuan, after announcing that the prospects of reconciling the revolutionists were almost hopeless, telegraphed later that the prospect was somewhat better. Li Yuan Heng seemingly is willing to discuss a compromise with a view to stopping the fighting, but his colleagues differ with him.

Other reports state that Li might be induced to agree to the republicanizing of the country southward from the Yangtsekiang, allowing Manchuria and Pechili to remain monarchial if the other provinces were left free to choose their own governments. This does not appeal to many of Li's followers, who disapprove of dividing the empire. Cheng Shao Tseng and the Lanchow army are also reported to be averse to the division. Perhaps nothing can be found to be decided upon until the provincial delegates whom Li has invited to Wuchang have met.

The differences of the rebels indeed hang as a dead weight upon the efforts at pacification and may, if not soon composed, endanger Chinese liberty. There are already rumors that the Manchus have been heartened by divisions among the revolutionists and their success at Nanking, and are preparing forcibly to uphold the dynasty and their own privileges. According to these rumors recruiting among the eight banners has been begun upon a formidable scale under Prince Tsai To's personal supervision. All young bannermen, Manchu, Mongol and Chinese are being gradually drawn in as conscripts. The plan is to bring immediately to its fullest war strength the guards division at the summer palace.

Even the loss of the arsenals, it is declared, will not hamper the government, as German firms at Peking have offered to supply unlimited munitions of war upon long credit.

Some of the young Manchu princes are quoted as boasting that they will recover everything within six months. The national assembly seems to have lost its power to some extent. It is reported that its members are receiving threats that they will be blown up with bombs and in fear many have quit.

STORM HAVOC

Edge of Terre Haute Was Swept by a Tornado.

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 13.—The windstorm that swept over the north-east edge of this city Saturday night seriously injured three persons, wrecked a number of homes and did damage estimated at fully $50,000. Edward Pearman was caught under the falling roof of his home and seriously crushed.

Conductor Wehley and brakeman Herkett of the Logansport division of the Vandalia were severely cut and bruised when the wind lifted the caboose and a box car from the tracks just north of here and hurled them down an embankment.

THOUSANDS OF BROKEN HEADS

New York Police Use Clubs On Menacing Crowd.

AN INCIDENT OF BIG STRIKE

When Woman Hit a Police Inspector With a Brick the Excitement Began, Battalion of Cops Sweeping Down Disturbed Section, Which Happened to Be Hell's Kitchen, and Made a Thorough Cleaning Up.

New York, Nov. 13.—Last night in Harlem's Little Italy the first bomb throwing of the street cleaners' strike occurred. Lieut. Jones and Sergeant Hellmers, in charge of a squad on guard at Stable D, 505 East 116th street, were talking at the corner. Something hit the curb twenty feet from them. There was an explosion that jarred the ground. They heard things whistle past their ears. Glass was broken in house windows nearby. Jones and Hellmers, investigating, found a jagged piece of gaspipe in the gutter. It was, they concluded, the remains of a very businesslike bomb meant either for them or for strike breakers.

During the afternoon an attack by strike sympathizers on the police in "Hell's Kitchen" was the occasion for retaliation on the part of the police, who in a battalion fifty strong, marched through the street clubbing every head that showed. Fifty footcops swept into the street, slowly advancing with machine-like precision. Their clubs rose and fell, rose and fell, and every time a club landed a man went down. There was not much to it after that if you don't count the crushed heads and numbed arms. The police drove straight through the street, clubbing every man who moved too slowly or who turned on his heel to curse. From Fifty-second street the squad split and went up and down Eleventh avenue, sweeping the street clean. Twenty men backtracked through Fifty-second street, thumped the leftovers and repeated the Eleventh avenue performance in Tenth avenue. The police did not bother to estimate casualties or take any prisoners.

The row started when a woman laid over the coping of a Hell's Kitchen tenement and let fly with a half brick. It landed, not upon a strike breaker, but upon the head of Max F. Schmidtberger, chief inspector of the police department. Fifteen minutes later 2,000 hoodlums with broken heads or aching shoulders were flying before a young army of police, while of "the female of the species more deadly than the male," not a skirt whisked on the rooftops.

MORO OUTBREAK

Government Confronted by a Serious Uprising in Mindanao.

San Francisco, Nov. 13.—Several bands of tribesmen have declared war following a recent attempt to disarm Moros in the province of Lanao. Island of Mindanao, according to the information brought by the transport Logan from Manila. The outbreak is said to be more serious than any since the United States took possession of the Philippines. The Moros have never been subdued.

For the last few years thousands of rifles and a large amount of ammunition have been accumulated by these tribesmen, who of late have on many occasions assumed a belligerent attitude. When the government determined to disarm them the Moros refused to surrender their weapons. Several small detachments of troops sent into the interior were killed. Just before the Logan sailed from Manila General John J. Pershing, in command of several troops of cavalry, had received orders to go to Mindanao and assume charge of the situation.

Home For Old Confederate Ladies.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 13.—The Colonial Mansion, the former home of General John H. Morgan, was sold by public auction here to Mrs. Hermina Johnson for $15,700. The place will probably later be purchased by the Daughters of the Confederacy to be used for old Confederate ladies.

Must Give Good Measure.

Kewanee, Ill., Nov. 13.—By a comprehensive weights and measures ordinance adopted by the Kewanee city commission the sale of potatoes in the city is prohibited except by a standard weight and the sale of bread is prohibited unless each loaf weighs twelve ounces.

Many Villagers Caught in Storm.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 13.—At Virginia, about twenty miles west of here, fifty persons were injured, some probably fatally, when a tornado destroyed a church Saturday night. The entire business section of the town was wiped out.

These Were Good Neighbors.

Tampico, Ill., Nov. 13.—Mayor John H. Daley headed a party of fifty men who husked the entire corn crop of sixty acres of Andrew Olin, a resident of this city, who is seriously ill. Members of the city council assisted the mayor.

Some Very Good Hints On Methods of Candling Eggs

A dark room is essential. The darker the room the better the result. Make the room large enough to conveniently handle your work. You will require several egg cases for different grades and should have room for several cases so that you do not have to go in and out of the room all the time. Eight feet square is not too large a space to accommodate one man, giving room for the workbench and cases. If it is not convenient to arrange a permanent room for this work a very good way is to make temporary partitions of black cambric. This can be done either by running the cambric on wire or tacking it to a wooden framework.

The work-bench along one side of the room should be about twenty-four inches high, more or less according to the height of the workman. This workbench should be about as wide as an egg case is long so that several cases can be set side by side on the bench, the workman facing the ends of the cases. The light should be placed about six inches above the egg cases, which are on the bench, and just over the partition in the egg case.

Do not place the light opposite the eye, as the glare will blind the workman whenever the eggs are taken from in front of the light. The light should be eight to twelve inches below the level of the eye, so that the workman may look down upon the eggs which he is holding before the light.

One can readily distinguish a rotten egg from a strictly fresh egg. These are the two extremes.

Strictly fresh eggs, when held before the light will present a uniformly clear, pink to yellow appearance, the light showing through the egg.

Rot—Eggs which are entirely decomposed or rotten will present an absolutely black appearance, no light showing through the egg. This class of eggs can be distinguished at a glance. It is the intermediate grades that require time, study and experience to properly classify. These grades are as follows:

Spots—These are eggs which are just beginning to decay and will show a black spot of variable size, according to the stage of decomposition.

Shrunken—These are old eggs, which have been carried in a reasonably cool temperature so that they have not decayed, but have merely become shrunken by partial evaporation of the moisture. The shrunken part will always be detected in the large end of the egg. For this reason eggs are always held before the light with the big end up. The age of the egg can be approximately told by the extent of the air space which has developed in the big end of the egg. Strictly fresh eggs are full and show no air space. This air space will be found to vary from one-eighth to three-fourths of an inch according to the age and temperature in which it has been held. Shrunken eggs are mostly found in the fall and winter when eggs are put on the market which have been held for advancing prices.

Watery—Hot weather causes the white of the egg to become very thin and watery. The watery condition develops in hot weather in contrast to the shrunken space in cool weather. This watery condition will be noticed by turning the egg quickly back and forth to detect this watery condition and get a more complete view from looking only at one surface.

Blood Streaked—Eggs which have been left in the hot sun for a time will develop streaks of blood. These are partially hatched eggs and are known as sun hatched. Eggs which have been in an incubator and have not hatched will also show somewhat similar appearance.

As heretofore stated, it is impossible to become familiar with the various grades and qualities without actual work. With the information in mind, however, anyone can readily learn how to candle eggs. There will be no doubt in the mind as to the strictly fresh, black rot or the badly shrunken egg. The other, being more difficult to detect, should be examined carefully and when in doubt break them and examine them. This is the best and the cheapest way to get the matter perfectly determined. If the egg looks doubtful to you it is apt to be bad and the loss will be small compared with the information gained by actual examination.

What Becomes of Vast Volume Of Copper Pennies Turned Out?

What becomes of the vast volume of copper pennies that are turned out each year by the government? They are never called in and redeemed like some kinds of currency and coins, but they seem to disappear as fast as they are stamped and put in circulation.

It is unusual if the date on any of the pennies in a man's purse at the end of the day is over ten years back, yet the Philadelphia mint, which coins all the copper pennies, sends out in some years as many as $1,000,000 worth of them to the trade centers—100,000,000, 1-cent pieces. If laid flat to edge, in a row they would reach more than one thousand miles. And still there are some sections of the country where the penny is little known.

In many of the mountain districts of the south the "York shilling," 12½ cents, is still spoken of in trade, but no one ever hears the 1-cent piece mentioned. In many towns in the south and west the tradesmen offer nothing for a penny, a 5-cent purchase is the smallest that can be made. But of late there have been more demands for pennies from the west, and the government experts have increased frugality.

In the east, the chief use of the penny, outside of filling the child's bank and buying the morning paper, is for the purchase of chewing gum and 1-cent candies. This is a habit which is increasing in New York city every year. All the railroad and ferry terminals and the subway and elevated stations are lined with penny-in-the-slot machines, and they reap an enormous harvest every day. So accustomed has the public become to their use that many of the more important stations and waiting rooms have as many as a dozen of these machines, which have to be emptied at least once a week.

Many a staid New Yorker found himself asking the ticket seller in the subway or elevated for pennies in change for his dime in order to patronize one of the machines. Sometimes they do not work, and he inwardly swears that he will give up the habit, but next day he is pretty sure to be at it again if he has a penny in his pocket.

The increase in the number of penny-in-the slot phonographs and moving-picture machines in New York in the last few years shows another way to which the public has taken to get rid of its pennies. Many of these machines are now appearing in ferry terminals and railroad stations, and "emporiums" are now open in many of the cities in which there are scores of these machines, with young women carrying rolls of pennies passing to and fro to make the required change.

Uncle Sam takes in many pennies for stamps and post cards, and many of them flow into the contribution box in the churches and religious societies. But all these ways in which the penny is put to use does not explain where they eventually go or what makes them disappear in such vast quantities every year. There have been long and learned discussions over where all the pins go to, but the penny problem is one which seems even more baffling.

One does not throw pennies about as he or she does pins, and despite the admonition to "see a pin pick it up," many are passed by where steps will be taken to gather in a penny found lying about. Even the government coinage experts do not give a satisfactory answer to the problem. They give the following reasons for the disappearance of the coppers—falling through cracks into holes and dark places; used in various arts and crafts; locked up for years in children's banks, etc., but these explanations do not seem satisfactory when the number of new pennies coined each year is taken into consideration.

Owens Newspaper Published Before Revolutionary War

Dr. J. B. Blair of Lewisville possesses two newspapers which are published in the United States years before the Revolutionary war, and though the sheets are now colored with age, they are legible, and very interesting. Mr. Blair could command a handsome price for either of the two sheets, but being heirlooms in the family, they are not to be disposed of at any price.

The New England Weekly Journal published at Boston, and dated Monday, April 8, 1728, is the older of the newspapers. It is a single sheet about ten by fifteen inches in size, printed on both sides in a letter much similar to the modern newspaper face. It tells of the arrival in Boston of the Duchess of Kendall and the Countess of Walsingham, from Aix la Chapelle; of the death of Sir Gilbert Heathcote, a director of the East India Co., which was largely instrumental in inducing immigration to this country; of an English officer having his pocket picked to the extent of 200 pounds, or almost $1,000 of our money; of the Earl of Pomfret being appointed Master of the Horse to the Queen; of a plague then prevalent in Amsterdam, Holland, which was causing the death of more than 700 persons each week; of a violent storm near Naples, Italy, out of a village harboring 500 souls, only six escaped death; of a corn famine then prevalent, when corn sold at two dollars per bushel; of 500 horsemen swooping down upon the Boston ports, armed with clubs, and stealing away many bushels of corn to feed starving relatives. Church notices were then paid advertisements. The sermon for the following Sabbath were to be on the following topics: "The Danger of Falling Away After a Profession is Made," and "The History of the Rise, Increase and Progress of the Christian People." The Journal tells also that Nath. Pigott was due to open a school for the instruction of negroes, and asks servant owners to send children of said servants to Mr. Pigott for instruction in reading, catechizing, and if desired, writing.

Arthur Savage, a Boston grocer, advertised choice new coffee at 8 shillings per pound a price equal to about $1.84 in our twentieth century money. The publisher of the paper offered for sale "A very likely negro woman who can do household work and is fit for either town or country service," and "A very likely negro girl, 13 years of age, who speaks good English, and has been in this country some years."

There is little danger from cold or from an attack of the grip except when followed by pneumonia, and this never happens when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. This remedy has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of colds and grip and can be relied upon with implicit confidence. For sale by all Dealers.

Massachusetts has a Democratic governor again and the sacred codfish refuses to be comforted even by a baked bean supper.

The Republicans carried Rhode Island and the Democrats carried Kentucky. Many men still take the advice of their grandfathers on how to vote.

Schenectady, N. Y., has a Socialist mayor, but the citizens need not expect to walk up to the City Hall and draw meal tickets instead of working.

A number of reform mayors were defeated in the election. It takes a skilful politician to prepare a sugar coating for the bitter pill of good government.

The profession of burglary is being adopted by an increasing number of young men, but it will never be really popular while it requires so much night work.

As a million women will vote in the next presidential election, the candidates must take care to have their trousers properly creased.

A world's plowing record of four minutes to the acre at Lafayette, is a great record in a useful science, but if a college boy threw the hammer an inch farther than before it would awaken much more enthusiasm.

Another call for money came from the embarrassed State of Indiana to the county treasurers. The Marion Chronicle says that this is at least the third call the treasurer's office has received this fall, and payment is usually made about January 1, which means that the State is drawing in advance to pay past debts. It is all right to draw on money long banked in the State's favor to pay debts that are going to be made, but when the thing gets reversed to a hand-to-mouth proposition, the poor State is in an "awful" state, and Tom Marshall is probably wearing a few more wrinkles in his face. To a man with a clear view of things, it might seem that the "economic" Thomas Marshall would have to borrow money to continue his economic ways. No wonder he thinks he is presidential timber.

The resolute attitude and plain declaration of a determination of President Taft to do his official duty, regardless of political consequences, is calculated to command respect and admiration. If there had been more of that kind of courage and less paltering in time past, there would never have been such growth of abuses to battle with as have aroused the wrath and beset the government with hard tasks in recent years. The battle will have to be kept up till the abuses are destroyed and business of all kinds is conducted in accordance with laws which require that rights be protected and justice be done. To have it distinctly understood that the law must be complied with or the troubles of "big business" will not cease, is the surest way of insuring peace and prosperity. It is the day of trusts and not the day of competition that is passing. Competition may be held within reasonable bounds and prevented from being destructive, but it can not be destroyed that monopoly may live.

If you haven't made the change it is high time that you are doing it.

All speed records were broken by the thermometer yesterday morning in its sudden lowering flight.

In Indianapolis the police have been ordered to arrest all owners who failed to have their horses properly shod, and blanketed while standing hitched. Why not arrest the man who does not have his family properly shod and blanketed for the cold spell.

We read that an Anderson man married two women, pretended to be dead and later got into trouble. He made his greatest mistake in only pretending to be dead.

You may notice that we give considerable space to the weather today. Seeing it is about as good as any we could get up you should be very well satisfied with it.

Seems that when this colymn tries to extend (meaning to sweat under the collar) itself the stuff is noticeably punker (or punker noticeably) than usual.

No, Johnnie, the Knight of the Bath and Saturday night are not of necessity one and the same thing.

That Indianapolis murder mystery doesn't seem to be getting any place. We hope you will not pin your hopes in the Indianapolis police solving it.

Russian fur dealers, the newspapers say, have asked for a closed season of two years to save the sable from the extinction. One might almost presume from that that it's not far to the end of the sable.

This colymn dislikes poetry muchly but in order to keep pace with the age of Kipling, Tipling etc., it produces the following today. The author is extinct.

Do we like winter?

Or in dead earnest,

Then in our gushing,

Or would we rather

Send it a-kiting,

Is it the weather

We would have chosen?

Are we enraptured

When we are frozen,

Or are we feeling

When we declare it

Such an allurements

We could not spare it?

Is it so healthy

So says the fable,

But how we shun it

When we are able,

When we are certain

It is a corner

Routed for summer!

Beautiful winter,

Lovely as ever,

But from its charms

Gladly we sever,

Leaving to love it

DEMOCRATS IN TERRIBLE MESS

Indianapolis Star Says Mull Followers in Rush County Will Not Stand by Beck.

THEY ARE AVERSE TO HACK

They say in the Sixth district that Charles Beck of Richmond will be defeated for Democratic district chairman, says the Indianapolis Star. They do say, likewise and also, that Charles A. Hack of Shelbyville will not land the chairmanship in the Sixth. The story is that both the men have to reckon with the Democrats of Rush county and with the Democrats who train with the Rush county crowd. In Rush county there is opposition against Beck because of Wayne county's attitude toward Lon Mull of Manila, Rush county, in the last Democratic district convention, when Finly Gray was nominated over Mull and Dr. T. H. Kuhn for representative. Mull's friends refuse to accept Beck for district chairman. So that ends the Beck boom, according to the phophets. For they say it is obvious that even Beck himself would not insist on going after the chairmanship under such circumstances, knowing that inharmony might result. It is said that the Mull men also are inclined to think that Hack of Shelbyville will not suit them. They do not wish to send a Sixth district Democrat to the State organization meeting to vote for a Steve Fleming man for State chairman. They desire to continue under a Taggart organization. So the report is that the Mull contingent will rally to Herman Trichler of Brookville, and that Trichler will be made district chairman on a harmony platform, the harmony being to the liking of the Taggart-Mull crowd particularly.

PLAN SYSTEM FOR AUTOISTS

Hoosier Motor Club Will Post Indiana Roads With Signs For Information of Motorists.

IS OBJECT OF ORGANIZATION

Will go Into Sign Posting Business on Small Scale And Then Branch Out.

A plan for posting Indiana roads with sign boards is under way in the Hoosier Motor Club. As soon as the organization is incorporated and able to pay for the necessary signs the arrangements will be completed and most of the roads in the vicinity of Indianapolis will be posted at once.

The keeping of roads all over the state properly posted is announced as one of the prime objects for the existence of the motor club, and the organization hopes to be able to inaugurate an elaborate and helpful system of signs even during its first year. Motorists in many other states began the posting of the roads several years ago, and now have as a result of their labors almost perfect systems of signs covering the highways. Through lack of organization among the autoists the matter was wholly neglected in Indiana and the motorists of the state are just now coming to realize its importance and the possible benefits to be derived.

The club will go into the sign posting business on a rather small scale at the start. Indianapolis auto manufacturers will be asked from time to time to furnish a car to cover a particular road. A full report of road conditions, the location of crossroads, etc., will be brought in and signs will be made accordingly. The club will probably adopt an individual system of signals. For instance, a red spot on a sign may mean "dangerous turn ahead," a green streak may indicate something else, etc. The sign system, when completed, is expected to give the motorist on the road complete knowledge of his location and the conditions he will encounter just ahead of him.

AMUSEMENTS

The Portola offers for tonight's program, two extra good pictures. The first is a Vitagraph, "A Friendly Marriage." The other is a Lubin comedy, "Archibald, the Hero." The management announces that the famous drama, "Two Orphans" will be the attraction Friday and Saturday night.

The Princess will have for the first picture tonight a Kalem film entitled "The Branded Shoulder." It is said to tell a touching story of how a poor family had to give up their only child. The other film is an Essanay drama, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." Because he is a good fellow his family is neglected. The picture teaches a great moral lesson. Wednesday night the attraction will be "Rory O'More," a great feature picture.

What will a man do for the love of a woman? Would he sacrifice his honor his liberty for eight years imprisonment, and all his friends, just to save her name and leave her to the love of a rival? Would he do all this and have her believe him guilty and not knowing the truth? The question is, would he? This will be the subject of a Pathe story at the Palace tonight entitled "Love and Silence," a very pathetic story with a moral in every picture. The other picture is also a Pathe entitled "Honoring a Hero," a story of the Civil war with a very interesting story connected. The life and drum duet by J. Walter Wilson and Ralph Harrold Friday night will include some of the old songs that are not heard every day and will no doubt be appreciated.

The first and only time that the Indiana public will ever have an opportunity to listen to Brigham Young's famous Tabernacle choir from Salt Lake will be at the Schubert Murat theater on the matinee and night of November 18. The concert will be given by 200 picked voices from that organization under the leadership of Evan Stephens, who is a conductor of national reputation and the man has made their choir justly famous. Sale of seats opens Tuesday, November 14.

Mrs. May W. Donnan gave the fourth of her series of lectures to her study class Saturday afternoon. The development of the drama is proving a fascinating subject. Mrs. Donnan's exposition of the technique of the drama is simple and lucid, and its aim, power and beauty is set forth with exquisite appreciation. Mrs. Donnan has the faculty of making her hearers share her own enthusiasm. The lecture Saturday afternoon was a consideration of the influence of the actor, the theater and the audience upon the dramatist. The reference to plays and their salient characteristics in relation to these influences was wide and representative.

Mrs. Donnan gave a review of Augustus Thomas' play, "As a Man Thinks." She said the play is a remarkable acquisition to our native dramatic literature and is admirably interesting because of its construction, its dialogue and its revelation of character.

In her preliminary talk Mrs. Donnan gave a fascinating glimpse of Forbes-Robertson as lecturer, a role in which the wonderful personality of the actor is seen to remarkable advantage.

How to SELL Things That Are "FOR SALE"

Write your "For Sale" ad SIMPLY stating ever detail about the article that you would want an ad to give if you were anxious to buy something of the kind yourself. Give a little thought to the "selling points" about the article, and put THEM into your ad. Then run the ad MORE THAN ONCE, if that is necessary. It may or may not be.

(Copyright, 1910, by the Macmillan Company.)

"Buncoed, by gosh!" he muttered.

Then the grin died away, and his face grew bleak and serious. Leaving out his interests in the several Western reclamation projects (which were still assessing heavily), he was a ruined man. But harder hit than this was his pride. He had been so easy. They had gold-bricked him, and he had nothing to show for it. The simplest farmer would have had documents, while he had nothing but a gentleman's agreement, and a verbal one at that. Gentleman's agreement! He snorted over it. John Dowsett's voice, just as he had heard it in the telephone receiver, sounded in his ears the words, "On my honor as a gentleman." They were sneak-thieves and swindlers, that was what they were, and they had given him the double-cross. The newspapers were right. He had come to New York to be trimmed, and Messrs. Dowsett, Letton and Guggenhammer had done it. He was a little fish, and they had played with him ten days—ample time in which to swallow him, along with his eleven millions. Of course, they had been unloading on him all the time, and now they were buying Ward Valley back for a song ere the market righted itself.

And Daylight sat and consumed cocktails and saw back in his life to Alaska, and lived over the grim years in which he had battled for his eleven millions. For awhile murder ate at his heart, and wild ideas and sketchy plans of killing his betrayers flashed through his mind. Daylight unlocked his grip and took out his automatic pistol—a big Colt's .44. He released the safety catch with his thumb, and, operating the sliding outer barrel, ran the contents of the clip through the mechanism. The eight cartridges slid out in a stream. He refilled the clip, threw a cartridge into the chamber, and with the trigger at full cock, thrust up the safety ratchet. He shoved the weapon into the side pocket of his coat, ordered another Martini, and resumed his seat.

At ten o'clock he arose and pored over the city directory. Then he put on his shoes, took a cab, and departed into the night. Twice he changed cabs, and finally fetched up at the night office of a detective agency. He superintended the thing himself, laid down money in advance in profuse quantities, selected the six men he needed, and gave them their instructions. Never, for so simple a task, had they been so well paid; for to each in addition to office charges, he gave a five-hundred-dollar bill, with the promise of another if he succeeded. Some time next day, he was convinced, if not sooner, his three silent partners would come together. To each one two of his detectives were to be attached. Time and place was all he wanted to learn.

"Stop at nothing, boys," were his final instructions. "I must have this information. Whatever you do, whatever happens, I'll see you through."

SPENT HER MONEY WELL

On beautiful Sheridan avenue, in Detroit, lives Miss Marie Richter in perfect health, although a year ago she was almost a wreck. Writing of her condition at that time she says: "Last winter I was completely run-down and felt fagged-out all the time, was nervous and had indigestion."

"One of my friends advised me to take Vinol and it has done me great good. The tired, worn-out feeling is all gone and I am strong, vigorous and well. The stomach trouble soon disappeared and now I eat heartily and have perfect digestion. I wish every tired, weak, nervous woman could have Vinol, for I never spent any money in my life that did me so much good as that I spent for Vinol."

Thousands of women and men who were formerly weak and sickly owe their present rugged health to the wonderful strength-creating effects of Vinol. If you are pale, weak, nervous and upset you owe it to yourself and your family to try Vinol. It will build you up and make you strong. If it does not we give back your money. F. B. Johnson & Co. For a While Murder Ate at His Heart.

Returning to his hotel, he changed cabs as before, went up to his room, and with one more cocktail for a night-cap, went to bed and to sleep. In the morning he dressed and shaved, ordered breakfast and the newspapers sent up, and waited. But he did not drink. By nine o'clock his telephone began to ring and the reports to come in. Nathaniel Letton was taking the train at Tarrytown. John Dowsett was coming down by the subway. Leon Guggenhammer had not stirred out yet, though he was assuredly within. And in this fashion, with a map of the city spread out before him, Daylight followed the movements of his three men as they drew together. Nathaniel Letton was at his offices in the Mutual-Solander Building. Next arrived Guggenhammer. Dowsett was still in his own offices. But at eleven came the word that he also had arrived, and several minutes later Daylight was in a hired motor-car and speeding for the Mutual-Solander Building.

CHAPTER IX.

Nathaniel Letton was talking when the door opened; he ceased, and with his two companions gazed with controlled perturbation at Burning Daylight striding into the room. The free, swinging movements of the trail-traveler were unconsciously exaggerated in that stride of his. In truth, it seemed to him that he felt the trail beneath his feet.

"Howdy, gentlemen, howdy," he remarked, ignoring the unnatural calm with which they greeted his entrance. He shook hands with them in turn, striding from one to another and gripping their hands so heartily that Nathaniel Letton could not forbear to wince. Daylight flung himself into a massive chair and sprawled lazily, with an appearance of fatigue. The leather grip he had brought into the room he dropped carelessly beside him on the floor.

"I've sure been going some," he sighed. "We sure trimmed them beautifully. It was real slick. And the beauty of the play never dawned on me till the very end. It was pure and simple knock down and drag out. And the way they fell for it was amazing."

Letton made a dry sound in his throat. Dowsett sat quietly and waited, while Leon Guggenhammer struggled into articulation.

"You certainly have raised Cain," he said.

Daylight's black eyes flashed in a pleasant way.

"Didn't I, though!" he proclaimed, jubilantly. "And didn't we fool 'em! I was teetotally surprised. I never dreamed they would be that easy."

"And now," he went on, not permitting the pause to grow awkward, "we all might as well have an accounting. I'm pullin' West this afternoon on that blamed Twentieth Century." He tugged at his grip, got it open, and dipped into it with both his hands. "But don't forget, boys, when you-all want me to hornsoggole Wall Street another flutter, all you-all have to do is whisper the word. I'll sure be right there with the goods."

His hands emerged, clutching a great mass of stubs, check-books, and brokers' receipts. These he deposited in a heap on the big table, and dipping again, he fished out the stragglers and added them to the pile. He consulted a slip of paper, drawn from his coat pocket and read aloud:

"Ten million twenty-seven thousand and forty-two dollars and sixty-eight cents is my figurin' on my expense. Of course that-all's taken from the winnings before we-all get to figurin' on the whack-up. Where's your figures? It must a' been a mighty big clean-up."

The three men looked their bewilderment at one another. The man was a bigger fool than they had imagined, or else he was playing a game which they could not divine.

Nathaniel Letton moistened his lips and spoke up.

"It will take some hours yet, Mr. Harnish, before the full accounting can be made. Mr. Howison is at work upon it now. We—ah—as you say, it has been a gratifying clean-up. Suppose we have lunch together and talk it over. I'll have the clerks work through the noon hour so that you will have ample time to catch your train."

Dowsett and Guggenhammer manifested a relief that was almost obvious. The situation was clearing. It was disconcerting, under the circumstances, to be pent in the same room with this heavy-muscled, Indian-like man whom they had robbed. They remembered unpleasantly the many stories of his strength and recklessness. If Letton could only put him off long enough for them to escape into the pothead world outside the office door, all would be well; and Daylight showed all the signs of being put off.

"I'm real glad to hear that," he said. "I don't want to miss that train, and you-all have done me proud, gentlemen, letting me in on this deal. I just do appreciate it without being able to express my feelings. But I am sure almighty curious, and I'd like terrible to know, Mr. Letton, what your figures of our winning is. Can you-all give me a rough estimate?"

Nathaniel Letton did not look appealingly at his two friends, but in the brief pause they felt that appeal pass out from him. Dowsett, of sterner mold than the others, began to divine that the Klondiker was playing. But the other two were still under the blandishment of his child-like innocence.

"It is extremely—er—difficult," Leon Guggenhammer began. "You see, Ward Valley has fluctuated so, er—"

"That no estimate can possibly be made in advance," Letton supplemented.

"Approximate it, approximate it," Daylight counselled, cheerfully. "It don't hurt if you-all are a million out one side or the other. The figures'll straighten that up. But I'm that curious I'm just itching all over. What d'ye say?"

"Why continue to play at cross purposes?" Dowsett demanded abruptly and coldly. "Let us have the explanation here and now. Mr. Harnish is laboring under a false impression, and he should be set straight."

By this time Letton was stiffened by the attitude Dowsett had taken, and his answer was prompt and definite.

"I fear you are under a misapprehension, Mr. Harnish. There are no winnings to be divided with you. Now don't get excited, I beg of you. I have but to press this button . . ."

Far from excited, Daylight had all the seeming of being stunned. He looked at Dowsett and murmured:

"It was your deal, all right, and you-all dole them right, too. Well, I ain't kicking. I'm like the player in that poker game. It was your deal, and you-all had a right to do your best. And you done it—cleaned me out slicker'n a whistle."

He gazed at the heap on the table with an air of stupefaction.

"And that-all ain't worth the paper it's written on. Gol dast it, you-all can sure deal 'em 'round when you get a chance. Oh, no, I ain't a-kicking. It was your deal, and you-all certainly done me, and a man ain't half a man that squeals on another man's deal. And now the hand is played out, and the cards are on the table, and the deal's over, but . . ."

His hand, dipping swiftly into his inside breast pocket, appeared with the big Colt's automatic.

"As I was saying, the old deal's finished. Now it's my deal, and I'm a-going to see if I can hold them four aces—"

"Take your hand away, you whited sepulchre!" he cried sharply.

Nathaniel Letton's hand, creeping toward the push-button on the desk, was abruptly arrested.

"Change cars," Daylight commanded. "Take that chair over there, you gangrene-livered skunk. Jump, or I'll make you leak till folks'll think your father was a water hydrant and your mother a sprinkling-cart. You-all move your chair alongside, Guggenhammer; and you-all Dowsett, sit right there,

Backache is only a simple thing at first;

But when you know 'tis from the kidneys;

That serious kidney troubles follow;

That dropsy, Bright's disease may be the fatal end,

You will gladly profit by the following experience.

'Tis the statement of a Rushville citizen.

George Priest, 223 West Third street, Rushville, Ind., says: "I was bothered by attacks of kidney trouble for several years and as time passed my condition became worse. There was dull pain directly over my kidneys and I had spells of dizziness and weakness. My sight often became blurred and I knew that something must be done. Three years ago Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention and were so highly recommended that I got a box at F. B. Johnson & Co.'s Drug Store. They proved to be the best kidney medicine I had ever taken and in a short time had relieved me. On several occasions during the past three years I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills and they have always given entire satisfaction."

deal. You done your darndest, and it was all right. But this is my deal, and it's up to me to do my darndest. In the first place, you-all know me. I'm Burning Daylight—savvee? Ain't afraid of God, devil, death, nor destruction. Them's my four aces, and they sure copper your bets. Look at that there living skeleton. Letton, you're sure afraid to die. Your bones is all rattling together you're that scared. And look at that fat Jew there. This little weapon's sure put the fear of God in his heart. He's yellow as a sick persimmon. Dowsett, you're a cool one. You-all ain't batted an eye nor turned a hair. That's because you're great on arithmetic. And that makes you-all dead easy in this deal of mine. You're sitting there and adding two and two together, and you-all know I sure got you skinned. You know me, and that I ain't afraid of nothing. And you-all adds up all your money and knows you ain't a-going to die if you can help it."

"I'll see you hanged," was Dowsett's retort.

"Not by a damned sight. When the fun starts, you're the first I plug. I'll hang all right, but you-all won't live to see it. You-all die here and now while I'll die subject to the law's delay—savvee? Being dead, with grass growing out of your carcasses, you won't know when I hang, but I'll sure have the pleasure a long time of knowing you-all beat me to it."

"You surely won't kill us?" Letton asked in a queer, thin voice.

Daylight shook his head.

Looting the Family Purse

When you once pay the bill for a table or bed, the matter is closed as far as expense is concerned.

But with a stove, the first cost is only a beginning—a trifling amount when you consider the cost of the fuel that stove will consume during its lifetime.

There are a lot of heating stoves that loot the family purse—burn twice as much fuel as a FAVORITE BASE BURNER would require to do the same amount of work.

The Favorite saves one-half on coal bills and throws out more heat. There is no other Base Burner like it, for the features that make it such a wonderful and economical heater are patented.

Don't put up with the wastefulness and extravagance of a cheap stove. Buy a FAVORITE BASE BURNER. It will save you money every day it is in use, and bring such comfort and satisfaction, too.

FREDERICK WILLIAM

WILHELM PUNISHES THE CROWN PRINCE

Undiplomatic Act Gets Young Man In Trouble.

Berlin, Nov. 13.—For his acts in applauding the warlike speech of Dr. Von Heydebrand in the reichstag last Thursday, the kaiser is reported to have directed the crown prince to apologize to the chancellor and to undergo a few days' detention at his residence at Danzig.

If the report be true the directions no doubt will be obeyed, as the Hohenzollern family rules give the head of the family absolute power over all members. The detention, of course, would be a mere formality, which, according to current belief, the crown prince has undergone more than once because of indiscretions.

The conduct of Crown Prince William during that memorable debate is the universal topic of the press and public. It has not yet been explained, but the saying of the historian Treitschke, "Never in the history of the Hohenzollerns have father and son been able to agree," is in everybody's mouth.

NO OBJECTIONS

Authorities at Hammond Apathetic to Move to Revive Racing Game.

Hammond, Ind., Nov. 13.—For the edification of Chicago's sporting element, horse racing is to be again attempted in Hammond under the guise of a "gentlemen's driving track." A mile course is to blossom forth in the spring just beyond the southern limits of the city. It is expected to excel the famous Robey park, long ago abolished. The street railway company will extend its tracks to the park.

Chicago capitalists are said to be financing the project. Local officials have taken no action against this matter.

Sailors Caught in Storm.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—Thirteen men are thought to have perished and two boats, which put out from Chicago Saturday, are reported lost in the worst lake storm in years that swept out of the west and lashed the lake into fury following Saturday night's weather change and the sudden drop to nearly zero weather.

Big Condenser Let Go.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Nov. 13.—Alex Hubenard, assistant engineer at the Municipal Lighting and Power plant, was instantly killed when the big condenser let go with tremendous force. Hubenard was literally blown to pieces, after which steam cooked his body. A widow and six children survive.

Horton's Boys Pray For Him.

Joliet, Ill., Nov. 13.—The Rev. John Horton of Beecher is ill in the Joliet jail, but happy, because a letter from his wife at Bolton, England, forgives him for his recent bigamous adventure. He will return to her when released. His wife's letter says his boys pray for him when they go to bed.

Missouri's National Committeeman. St. Louis, Nov. 13.—Edward F. ## Aviator Rodgers Injured When Plane Dropped.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 13.—While in flight from Pasadena to the ocean Sunday, formally completing his ocean-to-ocean journey, C. P. Rodgers was severely hurt when his aeroplane crashed to earth at Compton, ten miles from here. Physicians say his injuries will not prove serious, although he will not be able to complete his flight for several days.

Rodgers' machine began to cause trouble soon after he left Pasadena, and he made a landing near Los Angeles to correct the defect. Ascending again he was flying rapidly toward the ocean when his machine became unmanageable. Attempting to land safely, Rodgers was caught under the aeroplane and bruised.

GRAY HAIR MAKES YOU LOOK OLD

A Simple Remedy Brings Back the Natural Color—Dandruff Quickly Removed.

How often one hears the expression, "She is gray and beginning to look old." It is true that gray hair usually denotes age and is always associated with age. You never hear one referred to as having gray hair and looking young.

The hair is generally the index of age. If your hair is gray, you can't blame your friends for referring to you as looking old. You can't retain a youthful appearance if you allow your hair to grow gray. Many persons of middle age jeopardize their future simply by allowing the gray hair to become manifest. If your hair has become faded or gray, try Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation which a chemist by the name of Wyeth devised a few years ago. It is simple, inexpensive and practical, and will banish the gray hairs in a few days. It is also guaranteed to remove dandruff and promote the growth of the hair.

It is a pleasant dressing for the hair, and after using it a few days itching and dryness of the scalp entirely disappear.

Don't neglect your hair. Start using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur to-day, and you will be surprised at the quick results.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special Agents, Hargrove and Mullin, Druggists, Rushville, Indiana.

DEFENSE OPENS IN GARY BRIBE CASES

Attorney for Defendant Condemns Dean's Methods.

Valparaiso, Ind., Nov. 13.—In the opening statement of the defense in the bribery case against City Engineer C. A. Williston of Gary, former Mayor Knotts of Hammond declared that T. B. Dean, state's star witness came to Gary for the sole purpose of trapping city officials by illegitimate and immoral methods, and not to obtain a franchise, as represented. This assertion, together with other incisive allegations of trickery, followed the announcement Saturday afternoon by the state that it had completed its portion of the testimony.

The Hammond attorney asserted the defense would prove Dean to be a man without a good reputation for truth, honesty or morality; that Dean got around Williston and played on his friendship and plied him with whisky in an effort to ensnare him; that the damaging statement about $2,000 for his vote was never heard by Williston and that the defendant would swear to it.

GOT WRONG GIRL

Twin Sisters Mix This Man Who Came on Elopement Errand.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 13.—Captain Harry R. Edwards of the schooner May H., eloped from Kent Island with Miss Betty Harrison, daughter of G. F. Harrison, a farmer.

Edwards spent his vacation last summer at a house near that of the Harrisons, who had twin daughters. People living on the island have often mistaken one of them for the other, and that was what Edwards did when he eloped Saturday night. He landed from the schooner intending to elope with Mary Harrison. He met Betty first and, thinking she was Mary, hurried her off to a parson and then aboard the schooner.

The schooner is somewhere in Chesapeake bay, with Edwards and his wife aboard, headed for Baltimore, while Mary is mourning the fate that leaves her a single woman.

GAME PRESERVES

Illinois Seeking Tracts in Different Parts of the State.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 13.—John A. Wheeler, state game commissioner, is engaged in securing vast tracts of land for the state to be used as game preserves. The lease of 10,000 acres of land has practically been completed in Crawford county, and he has left for Effingham and Jasper counties, where he will make an effort to obtain an additional 10,000 acres. It is the intention of the game department to secure a dozen tracts of land of 10,000 acres each in different parts of the state.

Who Will Be New Patriarch?

Salt Lake City, Nov. 13.—The death of John Henry Smith, for thirty years the presiding patriarch of the Mormon church, leaves an important office vacant, and there is great interest in the question of his successor. He was an able assistant to President Joseph Smith, who was his cousin. John Henry Smith was seventy-nine years old and had been in Utah for more than half a century.

Making Rigid Inspection.

Marion, Ind., Nov. 13.—An unusually thorough inspection is in progress at the Marion national military home, in charge of Major Gordon, inspector general of the war department. The reason for a searching inspection, it is said, is due to the fact that a large quantity of supplies is missing from the institution.

Build Tabernacle in a Day.

Pontiac, Ill., Nov. 13.—One hundred men completed a tabernacle seating 3,000, which is to be used by the Rev. Charles Reigh Scoville, the evangelist, in a revival to be held in this city. The men began work at 7 o'clock in the morning, and at 5 o'clock the big building was ready for service.

HIGH GALE BLOWS FIRE FROM SHOP

he got outside the whole back end of the building was in flames.

All of the equipment of the bakeshop, which was modern in every detail and which had been installed five months ago, was damaged beyond repair with the exception of the big oven. Mr. Weakley has not yet tested the oven to see if it will work. He believes that it will not bake on account of the intense heat in the baking room.

Seven hundred dollars worth of flour was burned and ruined by the flames. Mr. Weakley had just purchased a large order of flour when he opened his new shop. He had a larger stock on hands than he ever had at any one time. He had bought with the expectation of it lasting until Christmas. Three hundred and sixty-five dollars worth of goods, which arrived Friday, were never opened and were completely destroyed in the flames. One horse and wagon in the stable adjoining were also burned.

The Weakley building was completed last June and was a very modern structure. The bakeshop was said to be the most complete and up-to-date of any small bakeshop in the State. It was modern in every particular and was installed at a great cost. It had a capacity of one thousand loaves an hour. The Weakley building was two stories high and about a quarter of a block long. The sidewalls of the first story were of the popular "stucco" finish, while the sidewalls of the second story were made of shingles.

Mr. Weakley will suffer a great inconvenience, he says, by being unable to supply his trade which he has established in the short time that he has been here. He has arranged for two of his men to bake at the Darnell shop at night so that he will be able in a measure to furnish bread for his customers. He expects to rebuild and equip his bakeshop at once.

Mr. Weakley came here from New Castle two years ago and has met with great success in conducting a bakery.

STORM LEAVES HAVOC IN WAKE

The barn on the Willard Hinkinson farm was unroofed and other damage was done by the wind.

The barn on the Oscar Newhouse farm was blown down, but fortunately all of the stock escaped injury.

Doors were blown off the barn at the Leonard Weewe farm and it was reported here today that much of his stock was killed and injured.

Much damage was done on the Samuel R. Newhouse farm northeast of the city. Hog sheds, one large cattle barn and several small outbuildings were blown down at a great loss.

On the Homer Green farm the roofs were torn from the barns and most of the smaller buildings were blown down and carried into adjoining fields.

On the farms of John Ruddle and Ed Boren similar damage was done. A large cattle barn on the Webb Travis farm was crushed by the wind and one steer killed. Other buildings about the farm were damaged considerably by the wind.

On the John Myers farm the roof was blown from the barn and several small outbuildings were blown down.

A tool house on the Edmund Gartin farm was blown down and a large outbuilding was turned over on the Doc. Powell farm.

A tree was blown against the house on the Oscar Applegate farm southeast of the city and broke several windows which frightened the members of the Applegate family.

A corn crib on the farm of Verne Norris, county clerk, was blown down by the wind.

Rural mail carriers came into the postoffice with new tales of wreckage caused by the storm. George Aultman whose route passes through the storm-swept district of the country said that he did not remember seeing very many fences standing. He said that little damage was done to the forests, but that the wind seemed to take special spite on the barns, sheds and other small buildings. Mr. Aultman counted eleven barns which had been blown down.

The storm swept up from Shelby county through Homer and Manilla, causing much loss in the vicinity of the two towns. The telephone wires into those two places were down today and little could be learned of the damage.

The roofs on a large barn and a shed on the Jacob Hester farm, one mile north of Manilla were torn off and carried into an adjoining field.

Considerable loss was felt on the Tom Mull farm two north of Manilla, where a windmill was blown down and several buildings were damaged.

On the Landy Brown farm near Manilla the roof was blown off the house and other damage was done to smaller buildings.

Later reports are to the effect that the whole first story of a large stock barn on the Powell farm northeast of the city, where Bachanans live was wrenched off and carried into a nearby field. A large tree was blown on the house tearing down the chimneys and greatly frightening the members of the Bachanan family.

There was a report current here this morning that a large cattle barn on a Leisure farm near Carthage was blown down and sixteen cattle killed, but this story could not be verified. Little damage was done around Carthage aside from the fact that a number of telephone lines were down.

Telephone wires south of Arlington were down but the wind failed to do much damage in that vicinity.

The roofs were torn from several cattle sheds on the Frank Offutt farm near Arlington.

The roof of the house on the Lewis Bagley farm near Arlington was wrenched off and many fences were blown down.
